

ABSTRACT

This invention relates generally to film compositions for use in the delivering topical and/or systemic actives, and more particularly to a slow dissolving or disintegrating strips, especially for delivering oral agents to the teeth and gums.